As a new member of the Baker family myself, I have been most impressed with the dedication and commitment of our faculty and staff. You will be working alongside individuals who care about student success, are committed to quality and are concerned about the welfare of their co-workers and colleagues. We trust your becoming part of our family will only advance our ability to offer an outstanding educational experience for our students and preserve the first rate reputation of our institution.

The Employment Handbook is published to provide you with timely information about Baker and your work environment. Please take some time to read the information in this Handbook. If you have questions, contact your supervisor or the Chief Human Resources Officer.

I look forward to meeting you and working with you in the coming years.

Sincerely,

Dr. Lynne Murray
President
INTRODUCTION

History

Founded in 1858, three years prior to establishment of Kansas’ statehood, Baker University is the state’s oldest university. It is named for a distinguished scholar and bishop, Osmon Cleander Baker, who presided over the first conference convened in this new region by the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Weathering the strains of both the Great Depression and World War II, Baker has maintained a record of unbroken service for over 140 years. Its rich academic tradition includes four Rhodes Scholars and two Pulitzer Prize winners. During the past decade, Baker has renovated its older structures and continued to increase its endowment through the establishment of endowed chairs and professorships and expanded student scholarship funds.

In recent years, the University has been named the top private college in Kansas by The Gourman Report based on the quality of its faculty and facilities, ranked among the top 100 private schools in the nation in Money Magazine’s Money Guide to America’s Best Buys in College Education. The University’s reputation for high academic achievement was reiterated when it was ranked second among Kansas colleges for the percentage of its students accepted to graduate schools.

New programs to serve the changing needs of new student groups have been introduced throughout the University’s history. In 1975 Baker expanded horizons by developing a Master of Liberal Arts degree program for adult students in Kansas City. In 1988 this program was incorporated into the School of Professional and Graduate Studies, which offers graduate and undergraduate degree programs for adult students.

In August 1991, the School of Nursing was established in the Pozez Education Center at Stormont-Vail Regional Health Center which serves as Baker University’s Topeka Campus. The school provides professional nursing education to meet the growing needs of the state and nation.

Graduate programs in education were initiated in 1995 in Overland Park. The School of Education was created in 2005 offering graduate and Doctoral programs in education.

The Vision

Baker University will be nationally recognized for fostering learning communities that integrate liberal arts, professional programs, and experiential learning in ways that develop the whole person and shape successful, responsible citizens for our global society.

Mission

The College of Arts and Sciences prepares students for a lifetime of continued intellectual, professional, and personal development. Graduates will be responsible global citizens who think critically, communicate effectively, act ethically, serve generously, and live fully.

Core Values

Student Learning, Development & Success
We are passionate about student learning, development and success. We will provide a challenging, yet supportive, learning-centered educational experience that reflects a concern for academic excellence, sensitivity to changing and emerging student, stakeholder, and market requirements, and attention to the factors that influence student learning, development, fulfillment and success. We will build a living learning environment that promotes student engagement and ignites in our students a passion for lifelong learning. To do so, will require focus on organizational learning and agility.

Community

Our commitment to community represents the essence of our campus culture. We will adopt policies, procedures, and practices that promote attention to individual needs and aspirations, as well as those that strengthen our University and the broader community that we serve. We value diverse perspectives and promote actions that demonstrate mutual respect among all members of our local community and the global community of which we are a part. We will actively engage students, faculty and staff in integrated learning communities that foster synergistic connections among and within academic disciplines, task groups and social clusters. We will seek ways to partner with our extended community to promote mutual enrichment, professional progress and the greater good.

Character

We understand that character development is a lifelong pursuit. Therefore, we encourage continued character development for students, faculty and staff. We will seek and develop faculty and staff who will model ethical behavior, principled decision making and personal integrity in ways that will inspire these characteristics in our students. We will integrate ethics and analytical thinking throughout our curriculum and adopt an ethos of character development in our approach to athletics, co-curricular activities, student discipline and employee relations.

Civic & Social Responsibility

We are committed to the traditional United Methodist concerns for social justice and service to others, and we will seek faculty, staff and students that share this concern, regardless of their faith tradition. We will encourage a sense of social responsibility among members of our community by integrating academics, student development, co-curricular activities, University governance and community-service programs in ways that promote understanding of public policy and encourage activism, service to others, leadership development and a lifelong commitment to civic and social engagement.

SECTION 7 ACKNOWLEDGMENT
SECTION 1

GENERAL EMPLOYMENT MATTERS

1.01 EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY

It is the policy of Baker University to afford equal opportunity for all persons without distinction or discrimination because of an individual’s race, color, creed, sex, religion, age, national origin, handicap or disability, veteran status, pregnancy status, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, or other status protected by law, while making every reasonable effort to comply with the discipline of the United Methodist Church.

Equal employment opportunity applies to all aspects of the employment relationship including, but not limited to, recruitment, hiring, promotion, transfer, training, compensation and benefits, discipline, and discharge.

The University encourages reporting of all perceived incidents of discrimination regardless of the offender’s identity or position. If you feel that you have a complaint or problem relating to equal employment opportunity, you are encouraged to use the Complaint Resolution and Open Door Policy. If for some reason you feel you cannot bring your complaint of equal employment opportunity under this policy, you may bring your complaint to the Chief Human Resources Officer, the Chief Financial Officer or any member of the University administration with whom you feel you can discuss the situation.

No employee will receive unfavorable treatment for bringing a complaint of equal employment opportunity. All complaints will be considered confidential. Only those individuals involved in the complaint, including its investigation and resolution, will have information concerning the complaint.

1.02 PROHIBITED HARASSMENT

Baker University is committed to creating a culture of respect and providing an environment that values diversity and emphasizes the dignity and worth of every individual. As part of that commitment, the University strives to provide an educational and working environment that is free from harassment based on race, color, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity and gender expression, religion, age, marital status, pregnancy status, disability, veteran status, or any other status protected by law. Harassment in any form is prohibited and incidents of harassment are met with appropriate disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment.

Prohibited sexual harassment is conduct that is (1) sexual in nature; (2) is unwelcome; and (3) either (i) in the case of a student, denies or limits a student’s ability to participate in or benefit from a school education program; or (ii) in the case of a Baker employee, is sufficiently severe and pervasive as to change or alter the individual’s working conditions. Conduct that satisfies these elements violates this policy and also may be a form of prohibited discrimination. No policy can anticipate each and every comment or behavior that may constitute prohibited sexual harassment. The following includes a non-exhaustive list of conduct and/or comments that may violate the University’s policy prohibiting sexual harassment:

- Making sexual propositions or pressuring an individual for sexual favors;
- Touching of a sexual nature;
• Displaying or distributing sexually explicit drawings, pictures, or written materials, including but not limited to e-mail or internet materials;
• Performing sexual gestures or touching oneself sexually in front of others;
• Derogatory or stereotypical comments about members of one sex or another;
• Sexual jokes or innuendo.

Likewise, harassment based on race, color, national origin, religion, age, disability, veteran’s status, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, marital status or any other status protected by law is prohibited. Prohibited racial or other harassment is conduct that is: (1) based on race or other protected status; (2) is unwelcome; and (3) either (i) in the case of a student, denies or limits a student’s ability to participate in or benefit from a school education program; or (ii) in the case of an employee, is sufficiently severe and pervasive as to change or alter the individual’s working conditions. Conduct that satisfies these elements violates this policy and also may be a form of prohibited discrimination.

No policy can anticipate each and every comment or behavior that may constitute prohibited racial or other harassment. The following includes a non-exhaustive list of conduct and/or comments that may violate the University’s policy:

• Use of racial epithets or slurs by one student toward another student, or by an University employee to another student or employee;
• Negative stereotyping based on race, national origin, age, disability, sexual orientation, or other protected status;
• Written or graphic material that shows hostility or aversion toward an individual or group and that is exhibited anywhere on the University’s premises or circulated in the workplace or educational environment, including through University e-mail.

No one is above the University’s policy prohibiting harassment. A harasser may be male or female, of the same sex or opposite sex, a co-worker, administrator, faculty member, student, or prospective student, family member of a student or employee, visitor, guest, vendor, consultant, or any other person with whom an employee or student comes into contact in the performance of his or her work and/or educational activities.

Baker encourages any individual (whether an employee or student) who perceives a violation of this policy, regardless of the offender’s identity or position, to report the situation. Any administrator, faculty member, or non-certified staff who becomes aware of alleged violations of one or more of these policies must report the situation to his/her immediate supervisor or the Chief Human Resources Officer. If an employee takes the complaint to his/her supervisor, the supervisor should notify the Chief Human Resources Officer. The Chief Human Resources Officer, or his/her designee, will conduct an immediate investigation, including contacting the complainant, witnesses, if any, and the alleged wrongdoer. Based on the results of the investigation, the Chief Human Resources Officer will take steps appropriate under the circumstances, to address the alleged misconduct and prevent a recurrence.

The complaint and the resulting investigation will be kept as confidential as possible under the circumstances. No employee who raises a good faith complaint pursuant to this policy or who cooperates with an investigation will be retaliated against for his/her complaint and/or participation in the investigation. Any perceived retaliation should be reported immediately pursuant to this policy.
1.03 REASONABLE ACCOMMODATION

Baker University is committed to providing "reasonable accommodations" to qualified employees, applicants and/or students with known disabilities, in accordance with Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act and the Americans with Disabilities Act, as amended.

Individuals at the Baldwin City campus seeking accommodations and/or information about the services, activities, and facilities that are accessible to and usable by persons with disabilities should contact the Chief Human Resources Officer, 618 Eighth Street, P.O. Box 65, Baldwin City, KS 66606-0065 (785-594-8362). Individuals at the School of Nursing (SON) should contact the VP and Dean at the SON campus, 1500 SW 10th St., Topeka, Kansas 66604 (785-354-5854). Individuals at other campuses should contact the Dean of the School of Education and the Dean of the School of Professional and Graduate Studies, 7301 College Blvd., Overland Park, Kansas 66210 (913-491-4432 Ext. 1236 or 8475).

1.04 ACCOMMODATION NOTICE

Baker University is committed to providing "reasonable accommodations" in keeping with Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act and the Americans with Disability Act of 1992. Students must provide appropriate documentation of the disability which should include appropriate diagnostic testing and a recommendation form prepared by qualified personnel outside of Baker University. "Reasonable accommodations" will be determined by University staff in consultation with the student, faculty and/or staff member. Accommodations are not retroactive.

Examples of accommodations include but are not limited to advocacy, extended test time, testing environment with minimal distractions, note-taking services, assistive technology, assessment referral, registration assistance, accessibility, and liaison to University academic service areas and to community agencies.

Baker University staff members provide accommodations only in the sense that they send confidential letters to faculty or administrative staff (in the cases of housing or dining services) explaining the nature of the student’s disability and suggested accommodations. These support services are designed to equalize opportunities for students with disabilities, not to lower academic standards or to alter the essential nature of the degree requirements. To that end, accommodations at Baker University do not include:

- Reduced standards of academic performance
- Special classes or programs for students with learning disabilities
- Evaluation or diagnostic testing of learning disabilities
- Separate or special tutorial programs for students with disabilities
- Waivers of essential academic courses

Although certain facilities are not fully accessible to people with physical disabilities, Baker University will take such actions as are necessary to ensure that no qualified person is denied the benefits of, excluded from participation in, or use of any programs or activities provided by the University. Baker will meet federal standards of accessibility by reassignment of classes or other services to accessible locations, or through alterations or new construction. Structural changes to existing facilities will not be required where other methods are sufficient to comply with the federal standards as published.

Students seeking accommodations and information about the facilities that are accessible to and usable by persons with disabilities should contact the Student Academic Services (SAS) Office located on the Baldwin City campus or call (785.594.8352). Students at the School of Nursing (SON) should contact the Student Affairs Specialist at the SON campus (785.354.5850).

Any person having inquiries concerning Baker University compliance with the regulations implementing Title VI, Title IX or Section 504 is directed to contact the Title IX Coordinator, Baker University, P.O. Box 65, Baldwin City, KS 66006-0065 (785.594.8431), who has been designated by Baker University to coordinate the institution’s efforts to comply with the regulations implementing Title VI, Title IX and Section 504. Any person may also contact the Assistant Secretary for Civil Rights, U.S. Department of Education, regarding the institution’s compliance with regulations implementing Title VI, Title IX or Section 504.

All campuses have reporting options to EthicsPoint: Dial toll-free 866-879-0422 or online at https://secure.ethicspoint.com/domain/media/en/gui/30199/index.html

1.05 COMPLAINT RESOLUTION AND OPEN DOOR

The University encourages all employees to bring to its attention any problem, concern or question they may have about work. This includes, but certainly is not limited to, any complaints about alleged discrimination, harassment, retaliation, and/or failure to provide reasonable accommodation. The University has an open door policy and any employee may speak with the Chief Human Resources Officer, the Vice President for Financial Services or any member of the University administration about any job-related interest, problems or concern he or she may have at any time. The University is interested in what you have to say.

Any problem, concern or complaint should be addressed as soon after it arises as is practicable and the University will make every effort to discuss the problem with you as soon as practicable. Problems requiring immediate attention should be addressed when they occur. Other problems are better discussed privately and when time permits and can be resolved by following the complaint resolution steps which are set out below. The University encourages you to use this procedure when possible.

Step 1. Within three (3) working days of the event(s) giving rise to the problem or complaint, discuss the problem or complaint with your immediate supervisor who will consider the matter and work with you to try to resolve the concern as soon as practicable under the circumstances.

Step 2. If you feel the decision of your immediate supervisor does not satisfactorily resolve the matter, or if your immediate supervisor is the source of your concern, you may raise your concern with your immediate supervisor’s supervisor. Your supervisor’s supervisor will work with you to resolve the concern as soon as practicable under the circumstances.

Step 3. If you feel the decision of your supervisor’s supervisor does not satisfactorily resolve the matter, you should notify the Chief Human Resources Officer.
Resources Officer will work with you to address your concern as soon as practicable under the circumstances.

Step 4. If you feel the decision of the Chief Human Resources Officer does not satisfactorily resolve the matter, you may take your concern to the Vice President for Financial Services. The Chief Financial Officer will review your concern, take any additional steps he/she deems appropriate under the circumstances, and notify you of the outcomes as soon as practicable under the circumstances. Absent extenuating circumstances, the decision of the Vice President for Financial Services is final.

Baker University recognizes that, on occasion, an individual does not feel comfortable raising a concern or complaint to his/her supervisor or to other individuals in a management position. Any individual who feels uncomfortable using this procedure, or who wishes to raise a concern anonymously, should contact Ethics Point, the anonymous reporting hotline, at 866-879-0422.

At each step of the procedure, you should present any information, including any documents and/or the identity of any potential witnesses, you feel would be helpful in providing information necessary to resolve the problem.

All complaints will be treated as confidentially as possible under the circumstances. Only those individuals with a need to know of the complaint in order to reach an effective resolution will be informed of the complaint. No individual who makes a good faith complaint pursuant to this policy will be retaliated against because of such complaint.
SECTION 2
EMPLOYMENT PRACTICES

2.01 EMPLOYEE STATUS

(a) Exempt and Non-Exempt Employees You will be advised before starting work if you are exempt or non-exempt and if you will be paid on a salary or hourly basis and the amount of your pay. Non-exempt employees will receive overtime pay at the rate of one and one-half (1 ½) times their regular rate of pay for all hours worked in excess of 40 in any one work week. Exempt employees paid on a salary basis are not eligible for overtime compensation.

(b) Full-Time, Part-Time and Non-Regular Employees - You are also either a full-time, part-time or non-regular employee. When you are hired, you will be advised whether you are a full-time, part-time or non-regular employee.

(1) Regular Full-Time Employees - Employees who are regularly scheduled to work at least an average of 30 hours per week throughout a 12-month period or an annual equivalent thereof. Regular, full-time employees are generally eligible for all University benefits available to administrative and support staff, provided the employee is otherwise eligible and qualified under the terms of the benefit plan.

(2) Regular Part-Time Employees - Employees who are scheduled to work an average of 20 but no more than 29 hours per week on a regular basis or an annual equivalent thereof. Regular, part-time employees are eligible for certain University benefits provided they are otherwise eligible and qualified under the terms of the benefit.

(3) Non-Regular Employees - Employees hired to work for the University for a set period of time or for a specific job assignment. Non-regular employees may be either full-time or part-time. Non-regular employees are not eligible to participate in University benefits.

(c) Mixed Positions Some University employees hold positions with mixed faculty and administrative and support staff duties or perform duties subject to individual employment agreements. When the position of an employee with mixed duties is not specifically subject to an individual employment agreement, the position is subject to the policies set forth in this handbook for administrative and support staff.

2.02 ORIENTATION PERIOD

The orientation period for new employees is generally 90 days from date of hire. This period is intended to provide you an opportunity to learn about the University and for the University to teach you more about your job responsibilities. At the end of your orientation period, or at any time before, you and the University will evaluate your suitability in your position and your continued employment.

Any significant absence during the first 90 days of employment will extend an orientation period by the length of the absence. If you or the University determines that the orientation period does not allow sufficient time to thoroughly evaluate and make a fair assessment of your performance, the orientation period may be extended. Your supervisor will advise you of any extensions in your orientation period.

Participation in some benefits may be restricted during the orientation period. Employees should read the information for each specific benefit for details. During the orientation period, employees shall not be eligible for paid absences except for designated holidays, jury duty and bereavement leave. In the event an employee transfers or otherwise changes positions, he/she will have a similar orientation period for the new position. Benefits, however, will not be affected.

The University may provide other orientation and training programs to familiarize employees with University operations or specific job duties. Some employees may participate in continuing education and training programs when such instruction is considered necessary for satisfactory job performance. In some cases, employees may be required to enroll in and satisfactorily complete such programs as a condition of continued employment.

Satisfactory completion of the orientation period should not create an expectation of continued employment. Absent an employment agreement for a defined term, all employees remain "at-will," meaning they may resign their employment with or without cause and without or without notice, and the University may terminate employment with or without cause and with or without notice.

2.03 PERSONNEL RECORDS

A personnel file is maintained for each employee by the Office of Human Resources. It is the responsibility of each employee to notify the Human Resources staff of any changes to the following:

(1) Name;
(2) Home address;
(3) Home telephone number;
(4) Identity of individual, including phone number, to contact in case of an emergency;
(5) Beneficiary of group life insurance;
(6) Highest level of education completed;
(7) Social security number; and
(8) Change in W-4 withholding.

Personnel files are the property of the University and access to the information they contain is restricted. Generally, only the employee’s supervisor and other University personnel with a legitimate reason to review information in a personnel file are allowed to do so. Further, the University will cooperate with federal, state or local government law enforcement investigations. Employees who wish to review their own personnel files should contact the Chief Human Resources Officer.

2.04 REFERENCES

All requests for references on current or past employees are to be referred to the Office of Human Resources. In responding to requests from an employee’s past or prospective employer, the University will verify only dates of employment and last position held. A quoted salary will be verified as to its accuracy only upon written authorization provided by the employee to the University.
2.05 ADVANCEMENT

Although the University prefers to advance or promote from within, and will consider current employees with the necessary qualifications and skills for vacancies, the University will hire the individual who best meets its needs. All employees are encouraged to seek advancement opportunities and to obtain promotion and career guidance from their supervisor. Where outside recruitment is in the University's best interest, however, the University will not consider internal applicants. To be considered for advancement or promotion, the employee must hold his or her current position for at least six (6) months and have both a satisfactory performance record and no discipline during the same period. A copy of the Internal Hiring procedure is available upon request from the Office of Human Resources.

2.06 TRANSFER

An employee may request or the University may transfer employees from one job to another or from one location to another. Transfer may occur because of fluctuations in work loads, better utilization of personnel, increased career opportunities or other business reasons. An employee's eligibility for transfer will be determined by the employee's qualifications, the requirements of the new job and the needs of the University. To be eligible for transfer, the employee must have held his or her current position for at least six (6) months and have both a satisfactory performance record and no adverse disciplinary actions during the preceding six (6) months. A copy of the Internal Hiring procedure is available upon request from the Office of Human Resources.

2.07 FORMER EMPLOYEES

A former employee who returns to employment with the University within thirty (30) days from the date of his or her separation will retain his or her most recent hire date, unless otherwise required by applicable law. A former employee who returns to employment with the University more than thirty (30) days from the date of his or her separation will be considered a new employee from the date of re-employment except as otherwise stated in this handbook. Benefit eligibility will commence with the re-employment date unless permitted otherwise by the individual benefit plan document and/or required by applicable law.

2.08 EMPLOYMENT OF RELATIVES AND PERSONS IN CLOSE PERSONAL RELATIONSHIPS

Baker University does not prohibit relatives or individuals in a close personal relationship from being employed at the University if the individuals possess the necessary qualifications for the position. However, employees who are married, who are in a romantic relationship, who are related by blood or marriage, or who live in the same household may not work in the same department; may not directly or indirectly supervise the other; may not occupy a position over which one has influence over the other's employment, including such things as job duties or assignments, salary adjustment, advancement or promotion or discipline and discharge and/or may not occupy a position which creates the perception of favoritism or unfair treatment of another.

Baker strongly discourages employees from initiating or becoming romantically or sexually involved with a student, including a student-employee, over whom the employee has (or could have through a particular program) an evaluative role. Although the relationship may appear voluntary and consensual, the inequity between the parties in light of their relative positions, places professional trust at risk. Employees should never initiate any romantic or sexual relationship with a student; in addition, faculty should decline any romantic overtures made by students over whom they have (or may have) an evaluative role.

If a romantic relationship between an employee and student exists or develops, it is the responsibility of the employee to notify the Chief Human Resources Officer so appropriate safeguards may be put in place to ensure the employee does not supervise, evaluate, or otherwise influence the student’s employment and/or educational opportunities. Failure by the employee to notify the Chief Human Resources Officer of the existence of such a relationship, may result in disciplinary action up to and including termination of employment.

2.09 ON LEAVING EMPLOYMENT

The University recognizes that situations will arise when it becomes necessary to separate employment. The employment relationship can be terminated by resignation, mutual agreement or involuntarily.

Resignation is a voluntary act initiated by the employee to terminate employment. Although advance notice is not required, the University requests that any administrative or support staff who resigns give at least two (2) weeks written notice to permit an orderly transition. The notice must be given to the employee's immediate supervisor or other individual in the employee's chain of command with a copy to the Office of Human Resources.

The University may discharge employees involuntarily with or without cause and provide notice either verbally or in writing. The University may state a cause or reason for the discharge in the notice although it is not required to do so.

Upon the separation from employment, the employee shall return to the University all University property including such things as any and all paper or electronic records, files and other documents, including copies, keys, credit cards, electronics, equipment or any other property which the employee received in the course of his or her employment or produced for the University in the course of his or her employment.

Eligibility for all University benefits will cease on an employee’s last day of employment unless otherwise stated in the specific benefit policy or otherwise required by applicable law.
Employees should read the information for each specific benefit policy for the details on continuation requirements, if any.

The Office of Human Resources schedules exit interviews in connection with separation.
Exit interviews provide an opportunity for an exchange of information between the employee and the University and an explanation of continuing benefits, conversion of benefits and return of University property.

2.10 PERFORMANCE EVALUATIONS

Performance evaluations are conducted to provide both supervisors and employees the opportunity to discuss job responsibilities, identify needed improvement, recognize strengths, establish job goals and objectives, and discuss approaches to meeting the goals and objectives established. Supervisors and employees are strongly encouraged to discuss job performance and goals from time to time on an informal basis.
Written performance evaluations are given at any time during or at the conclusion of an orientation period and annually thereafter. You may receive a wage or salary adjustment at any performance review. However, a performance evaluation does not guarantee a wage or salary adjustment. An evaluation may be given at other times when deemed appropriate by the University. If you are to be evaluated more frequently than annually, the University will advise you.

Generally, evaluations are performed using an evaluation form prepared by the University. The employee's supervisor or other appropriate person completes the designated portions of the evaluation form. Completed evaluation forms are then reviewed by the employee and the supervisor or appropriate person together. The evaluation form is signed and dated by both individuals and maintained in the employee's personnel file. The employee’s signature on the evaluation form does not necessarily mean that the employee agrees with the evaluation, only that the employee has read the evaluation. The employee may respond to the evaluation either verbally or in writing and any written response will be attached to and maintained with the evaluation form.

2.11 OUTSIDE EMPLOYMENT

Outside employment for regular, full-time employees is discouraged, and the prior approval from the Administrative Officer responsible for the area in which the employee is employed must be obtained before any outside employment or work activity is undertaken. Any employee on an approved leave of absence from the University is prohibited from working for another employer during the approved leave.
SECTION 3
WORKING HOURS AND WAGE PRACTICES

3.01 WORKWEEK AND HOURS OF WORK

The University establishes the time and schedule of working hours as required by work demands and other needs of the University.

The University workweek begins on Sunday and ends at 12 midnight the following Saturday.

In general the College of Arts and Sciences campus observes office hours from 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. In general the workweek for non-exempt employees at the College of Arts and Sciences campus is 37.5 hours and the work day is one (1) eight and a half (8 ½) hour shift consisting of seven and one-half (7½) hours of work and one (1) hour unpaid lunch period.

In general the School of Professional and Graduate Studies (SPGS) and Graduate School of Education (GSOE) campuses observe office hours from 9:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. Monday through Thursday and from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. on Friday. In general the workweek for non-exempt employees at SPGS/GSOE campuses is 40 hours and the work day is one (1) nine (9) hour shift consisting of eight (8) hours of work and one (1) hour unpaid lunch period.

When you are hired, your supervisor will advise you of your schedule and thereafter of any changes in your schedule.

3.02 LUNCH PERIODS/WORK BREAKS

(a) Lunch Periods The employee’s supervisor schedules lunch periods. Uninterrupted lunch periods of at least 1 hour are unpaid except when the employee’s supervisor restricts the use of that time or otherwise requires the employee to be available to begin work prior to the end of the lunch period.

(b) Work Breaks Work breaks are scheduled at the discretion of the supervisor. Work breaks are paid time and may be restricted in any manner by the employee’s supervisor depending on the needs of the University. Unless operations require otherwise, employees receive one (1) 15 minute break for each consecutive four (4) hour period worked in a single day.

3.03 TIME AND ATTENDANCE

To maintain a productive work environment, the University expects employees to begin work on time as scheduled and work through their shift. Absent special circumstances, the time and attendance guidelines are applied uniformly in the interests of consistency and fairness to all employees.

(a) Definitions Absence includes actual absence from work, arriving late at the start of your schedule or following lunch or other break, leaving work early for lunch, break or before the end of your schedule or unexplained absence from your work area during your schedule. Absent mitigating circumstances, absences can and will lead to discipline and discharge.
(b) Reporting Absences  If you are going to be absent or late, you must personally notify your supervisor at least one (1) hour in advance of your schedule. If you will be at work for only part of your schedule, you must personally notify your supervisor as soon as you are aware that you will not be at work for your entire schedule. If your supervisor is not personally available, you may leave a message on your supervisor’s voicemail. Failure to report an absence as described in this policy can lead to discipline up to and including discharge.

(c) Medical Verification  For absence due to illness or injury, the University may request verification of your illness or injury and the length of your anticipated absence from a health care provider satisfactory to the University.

(d) No Call No Show  Absence from work for three (3) consecutive work days without calling in as described in this policy will be considered a voluntary resignation.

3.04 TIME RECORDS

The University maintains a system for recording time. All non-exempt employees are required to complete an individual time record on a daily basis showing all hours worked. Failure to record your working time may result in discipline up to and including discharge.

(a) Non-Exempt Employees

(1) Start/Leave Times  Non-exempt employees must record their start time, time out for lunch, time in after lunch and ending time for each day worked. If you will be absent for a part of the day, for example because of use of personal and sick leave, you must record the time you leave and the time you return.

(2) Review of Time Records  Employee time records are checked and signed by the employee’s supervisor. Non-working time for which an employee receives pay, for example holidays, vacation or personal and sick leave, must be approved by the supervisor and recorded on an individual’s time record.

(3) Inclement Weather  In case of inclement weather, the University may allow a reasonable grace period for arrival at work and leaving work at the end of the work day. Non-exempt employees who are allowed a grace period will be paid for their scheduled day of work without reduction for the grace period. The length of any grace period is left to the discretion of the University. In the event an employee cannot report to work due to hazardous weather conditions, the employee may use accrued and unused personal and sick leave, earned and unused vacation or take the time off without pay, if there is no personal and sick vacation leave or vacation available.

(4) Absent Employee’s Time Records  Only authorized supervisors may complete time records for an absent employee.

(5) Accuracy of Time Records  Employees are responsible for the accuracy and timely submission of their time records. Payment for any error in recording, including error caused by failure to record all hours worked, will be corrected on the employee’s paycheck on the next regularly scheduled payday. Altering, falsifying or tampering with any time record or recording time on another employee’s time record may result in discipline up to and including discharge.
(b) Exempt Employees Exempt employees are required to report their use of personal and sick leave and vacation each month on the appropriate form.

3.05 PAYROLL

(a) Pay Period and Pay Date The pay period is the 21st day of each month through the 20th day of the following month for non-exempt (hourly) employees. The pay period is the first day through the last day of each month for exempt (salaried) employees. All employees are paid on the last working day of the month.

(b) Payroll Deductions Each pay period certain amounts will be withheld from an employee's paycheck by payroll deduction. Payroll deductions will be made for such things as Federal and State Income Tax, FICA (Social Security and Medicare), Group Insurance and other deductions authorized by the employee or required by law. Payroll deductions are itemized on the paycheck stub or, if pay is directly deposited, on a payroll voucher.

(c) Changes in Deductions or Questions Employees must file an Employee's Withholding Certificate, IRS Form W-4, with the Office of Human Resources at the beginning of employment, when a change in withholding occurs, or when otherwise requested by the University or required by law. Questions or problems regarding pay should be discussed with the employee's supervisor, the Chief Human Resources Officer or the Payroll Coordinator as soon as a question or problem arises.

(d) Direct Deposit The University provides an automated payroll deposit system ("direct deposit") for the employee’s convenience. In this system, your salary is automatically deposited into your designated checking or savings accounts on payday. You may enroll in or change your direct deposit account information by completing the appropriate form in the Office of Human Resources at any time. Upon any change in the direct deposit account, you will receive a payroll voucher detailing earnings and deductions.

(e) Authorization for Deductions Employees may authorize a payroll deduction to cover and pay to the University any amount owed by the employee to the University, including without limitation, for money, damage to, theft of, disposal of or failure to return any University property. The University will comply with all applicable law in making deductions, including authorizing deductions, from an employee’s pay.

3.06 SAFE HARBOR

It is our policy and practice to accurately compensate employees and to do so in compliance with all applicable state and federal laws. To ensure that you are paid properly for all time worked and that no improper deductions are made, you must record correctly all work time and review your paychecks to identify and to report all errors.

(a) Review Your Pay Voucher We make every effort to ensure our employees are paid correctly. Occasionally, however, inadvertent mistakes can happen. When mistakes do happen and are called to our attention, we will promptly make any corrections necessary. Please review your pay stub when you receive it to make sure it is correct. If you believe a mistake has occurred or if you have any questions, please use the reporting procedure outlined below.
(b) Non-exempt Employees If you are classified as a non-exempt employee, you must maintain a record of the total hours you work each day. These hours must be accurately recorded on a time card or time sheet that will be provided to you by the Office of Human Resources. Each employee must sign his or her time record to verify that the hours reported are complete and accurate. Your time record must accurately reflect all regular and overtime hours worked, any absences, late arrivals, early departures and meal breaks. At the end of each pay period, you should submit your completed time record to your supervisor for verification and approval. When you receive each pay check, please verify immediately that you were paid correctly for all regular and overtime hours worked that pay period.

Unless you are authorized by your supervisor, you should not work any hours that are not authorized. Do not start work early, finish work late, work during a meal break or perform any other extra or overtime work unless you are authorized to do so and that time is recorded on your time record. Employees are prohibited from performing any “off-the-clock” work and/or “volunteering” your time. “Off-the-clock” work or “volunteering” your time means work you perform but fail to report on your time record. Any employee who fails to report or inaccurately reports any hours worked will be subject to disciplinary action, up to and including discharge.

It is a violation of the University’s policy for any employee to falsify a time record, or to alter another employee’s time record. It is also a serious violation of University policy for any employee or manager to instruct another employee to incorrectly or falsely report hours worked or alter another employee’s time record to under- or over-report hours worked. If any manager or employee instructs you to (1) incorrectly or falsely under- or over-report your hours worked, or (2) alter another employee’s time records to inaccurately or falsely report that employee’s hours worked, you should report it immediately to the Office of Human Resources.

(c) Exempt Employees If you are classified as an exempt salaried employee, you will receive a salary which is intended to compensate you for all hours you may work for the University. In establishing your salary, it is contemplated your hours of work may fluctuate from week to week. This salary will be established at the time of hire or when you become classified as an exempt employee. While it may be subject to review and modification from time to time, such as during salary review times, the salary will be a predetermined amount that will not be subject to deductions for variations in the quantity or quality of the work you perform.

Under federal and state law, your salary is subject to certain deductions. For example, absent contrary state law requirements, your salary can be reduced for the following reasons:
- Full day absences for personal reasons (when an employee has exhausted all vacation and/or personal and sick leave)
- Full day absences for sickness or disability (when an employee has exhausted all vacation, personal and sick leave and/or disability benefits)
- Family and Medical Leave absences (either full or partial day absences when an employee has exhausted all vacation, personal and sick leave and/or disability benefits)
- The first or last week of employment in the event you work less than a full week.

Your salary may also be reduced for certain types of deductions such as your portion of health, dental or life insurance premiums; state, federal or local taxes, social security; or voluntary contributions to a 403(b) plan. In any work week in which you performed any work, your salary will not be reduced for any of the following reasons:
- Partial day absences for personal reasons, sickness or disability other than FMLA absences.
- Absences caused by the University or caused by the University’s facilities being closed.
- Absences for jury duty, attendance as a witness, or temporary military leave.
- Any other deductions prohibited by state or federal law.
It is not an improper deduction to reduce an employee’s accrued vacation, sick and personal leave or other forms of paid time off for full or partial day absences for personal reasons, sickness or disability.

(d) To Report Concerns or Obtain More Information If you have questions about deductions from your pay, please immediately contact the Office of Human Resources. If you believe you have been subjected to any improper deductions or your pay does not accurately reflect your hours worked, you should immediately report the matter to your supervisor. If your supervisor is unavailable or if you believe it would be inappropriate to contact that person (or if you have not received a prompt and fully acceptable reply), you should immediately contact the Director of Human Resources, the Payroll Coordinator, or any Administrative Officer in the University with whom you feel comfortable. If you are unsure of whom to contact if you have not received a satisfactory response within five business days after reporting the incident, please immediately contact the Vice President for Financial Services.

Every report will be fully investigated and corrective action will be taken where appropriate, up to and including discharge for any employee(s) who violates this policy. In addition, the University will not allow any form of retaliation against individuals who report alleged violations of this policy or who cooperate in the University’s investigation of such reports. Retaliation is unacceptable, and any form of retaliation in violation of this policy will result in disciplinary action, up to and including discharge.

3.07 LOANS AND SALARY ADVANCES

The University does not make personal loans or advances against unearned pay to employees.

3.08 OVERTIME PAY

(a) Overtime Pay Non-exempt employees will receive overtime pay at the rate of time and one-half (1 ½) the employee’s regular rate of pay for all hours worked in excess of 40 in any one workweek or in excess of 10 hours per workday. All overtime must be identified and approved by the employee’s supervisor prior to the work being performed.

(b) Compensatory Time Compensatory time is not allowed in lieu of overtime pay.

(b) Attire It is important for all employees to project a professional image of the University. Employees may wear business casual attire to work Monday through Thursday. However, there may be times when more customary business attire would be appropriate. The following guidelines will help define acceptable business casual attire Monday through Thursday:

Choose business casual clothing that communicates professionalism;
Keep your workday schedule into account when you are dressing. Casual business attire means clothing that allows employees to feel comfortable at work, yet appropriate for an office environment.
Casual business attire includes, but is not limited to: slacks, khakis, sport shirts, polo and cotton shirts, golf shirts, skirts and dresses, denim skirts, turtlenecks, sweaters, loafers and sandals.

Employees should not wear jeans, shorts, bib overalls, halter tops, beachwear, work-out attire, tank tops, tee-shirts, spandex or other form-fitting pants, or distracting, offensive or revealing clothes. In addition, employees should not wear athletic shoes, flip-flops, or slippers.
Employees in departments requiring uniforms are responsible for maintaining a neat and clean uniform.

The following guidelines will help define acceptable casual attire on Casual Fridays: The same guidelines for business casual attire Monday through Thursday apply on Fridays with the exception that jeans, tee-shirts, sweatshirts and athletic shoes may be worn. Baker-wear is encouraged on Casual Fridays. All clothing should be neat in appearance and without tears or holes.

Keep in mind that tee-shirts and sweatshirts should not contain offensive slogans or pictures.
Business reasons might require employees to wear business attire on Casual Friday.

No guideline can define appropriate attire in its entirety. Therefore, employees are requested to exercise good judgment. If you have any doubts about what to wear, select the more professional alternatives. Should you have any questions about appropriate attire, please contact your supervisor or the Office of Human Resources.

(a) Statement of General Principles This code applies to the following members of the University community: 1) Individuals who are paid by the University when they are working for the University, including officers; faculty and staff; 2) consultants, vendors, and contractors when they are doing business with the University; 3) trustees; and 4) individuals who perform services for the University as volunteers. The code of conduct refers to all these persons collectively as "members of the University community" or "community members."

(b) Integrity and Ethical Conduct The University is committed to the highest ethical and professional standards of conduct as an integral part of its mission, the promotion of learning. To achieve this goal, the University relies on each community member's ethical behavior, honesty, integrity, and good judgment. Each community member should demonstrate respect for the rights of others. Each community member is accountable for his/her actions.

This code of conduct describes standards to guide us in our daily University activities. We believe that these standards are already being followed. Our goal is to commit them to writing and to ensure that they are understood and followed by the community.

(c) Compliance with Laws and University Policies The University and each community member must transact University business in compliance with all laws, regulations, and University policies related to their positions and areas of responsibility. Understanding and following these standards can be complex, such as for example, in the areas of procurement (including limitations on the ability to contractually bind the University) and employment matters. In addition, community members are expected to behave in a manner which respects the freedom of others as well as refraining from interfering with, obstructing or disrupting a normal University activity, even while exercising their own freedom of expression. Managers and supervisors are responsible for teaching and monitoring compliance in their areas.

(d) Reporting Suspected Violations or Concerns The University’s compliance efforts focus on teaching members of the University community the appropriate compliance standards for the areas in which they work. Nevertheless, violations may occur. In addition, members of the University community may have concerns about matters that they are not sure represent violations. This section describes community members’ responsibilities for reporting violations or concerns, and how these responsibilities may be carried out.

Each community member is encouraged to report violations or concerns about violations of this code of conduct that come to his/her attention. Managers have a special duty to adhere to the standards set forth in this code, to recognize violations, and to enforce the standards. Disciplinary actions for proven violations of this code of conduct, or for retaliation against anyone who reports possible violations, will be determined on a case-by-case basis and may include termination of employment. Individuals who violate the code may also be subject to civil and criminal charges in some circumstances.

(e) How to Report a Violation or Discuss a Concern You may report violations or concerns to your immediate supervisor or department head, if appropriate. You may also make your report to the Chief Human Resources Officer, the Vice President for Financial Services or any member of the University administration with whom you feel you can discuss the situation.

(f) Conflicts of Interest This policy addresses situations where there might be a potential financial or personal conflict, or the appearance of such a conflict, between a particular outside interest of a member of the University community and the obligation that the community member owes to the University such that the community member's profit or advantage may come, or reasonably appear to come, at the expense of the well-being of the University.

Members of the University community may not have a direct or indirect interest, financial or otherwise, of any nature that is in conflict with the proper discharge of the community member's duties.

Members of the University community shall adhere to the laws, rules, regulations and policies of applicable governmental and University authorities. The failure to do so may be grounds for disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment.

No member of the University community shall accept or solicit any gift, favor or service that might reasonably influence the community member in the discharge of his or her duties or that the community member knows or should know is being offered with the intent to influence his or her official conduct.

A member of the University community shall not accept other employment or engage in any business or professional activity that he or she might reasonably expect would require or induce the employee to disclose confidential information acquired by reason of the community member's official position.

No member of the University community shall disclose confidential information gained by reason of his or her official position or otherwise use such information for his or her personal gain or benefit.

No member of the University community shall transact any business in his or her official capacity with any business entity of which the employee is an officer, agent or member, or in which the member of the community, or the community member's immediate family, owns a substantial interest.

Members of the University community must disclose potential conflicts of interest as soon as possible after they realize that a conflict or potential conflict may have arisen. Disclosure guidelines and procedures may be obtained from administrative officers, department chairs, the office of the Dean or from the Business Office.

If a conflict or potential conflict of interest is reported and allowed to exist under the advice of an officer or the Dean's office, it is required that the conflict or potential conflict be reported to the Chief Financial Officer and that it be reconsidered annually until it is resolved.

(g) Confidentiality The University maintains confidential records for a variety of business needs. Records include detailed information about students, job applicants, employees, finances, and future planning. Many records, such as medical records and student records, must be kept confidential as a matter of federal law. Other information, including social security numbers, must be kept confidential to protect the privacy of individuals doing business with the University.

Members of the University community are expected to protect this information by safeguarding it when in use, storing it properly when not in use, and discussing it only with those who have a legitimate business need to know. Community members who are uncertain about the use of University records and information should contact their supervisors.

(h) Outside Employment Outside professional commitments should not interfere with a community member's obligations to the University. No member of the University community shall accept outside employment that actually or potentially results in any conflict of interest with or intrudes upon or detracts from his or her responsibilities to the University, or the programs, policies and objectives of the University.

(i) Workplace Health, Environmental Health and Safety The University seeks a healthy and safe environment for all members of the University community and for visitors. Every community member is obligated to perform his or her job in a safe manner and to follow all safety rules and procedures. Community members should immediately report any hazardous conditions or job-related illness or injury to their supervisors. Assistance is available from the Office of Human Resources or the Physical Plant Office.

Furthermore, the University must comply with government rules and regulations that protect the environment and promote workplace safety. The University must operate its facilities with all of the necessary permits, approvals, and controls, especially with respect to handling and disposal of hazardous and bio hazardous materials and waste.

Anyone working with or around these materials must be familiar with the rules, regulations, and policies that apply to them.

Contact the Director of the Physical Plant for assistance and answers to questions

(j) Human Resources Matters (including equal employment, harassment, etc.) The University is committed to a work environment free of harassment and disruptive behavior, and to providing an equal opportunity work environment where every member of the University community is treated with fairness, dignity, and respect. No one shall discriminate against any individual on the grounds of race, color, creed, religion, sex, age, disability, national origin, veteran status, pregnancy status, sexual orientation or any other status protected by law.

All members of the University community, especially supervisors, must be familiar with laws, regulations, and policies related to employment matters. Some of the relevant University policies on employment matters include: 1) the policies against prohibited harassment, and 2) the policy on Equal Employment Opportunity. Assistance is available from the Office of Human Resources.

(k) Sponsored Research Grants and Contracts The University receives grants and contracts from federal and non-federal sources. Faculty and staff who are involved in federally sponsored research must strictly follow federal rules and regulations related to that work. Failure to observe government rules and regulations can result in the loss of funds from grants and contract, and, in some instances, civil fines and criminal penalties. With respect to grants and contracts from non-federal sources, the University expects compliance with their requirements. Compliance support is available from the Provost and Academic Dean or the University Chief Accounting Officer.

(l) University Documents and Record Retention Every member of the University community is responsible, within the scope of his/her work, for the integrity and accuracy of the University’s documents and records. No one may falsify or improperly alter information on any record or document. University documents and records are retained in accordance with the law and the University’s record retention policies. Additional assistance is available from the University’s Business Office.

(m) Weapon Free Workplace The possession of a weapon in or on any premises or property owned or controlled by the University is prohibited, except by law enforcement officials. Any member of the Baker community who is found guilty (including a plea of no contest) or has a sentence, fine or other criminal penalty imposed by a court for any offense involving a weapon that occurred in or on University property, or while performing business on behalf of the University, shall report such action to his or her supervisor or to the Office of Human Resources within five (5) calendar days.
(n) Consenting Relationship Baker University is committed to providing an academic environment that is free of discrimination and that fosters intellectual, personal, and professional growth. In honoring this commitment, the university strongly discourages employees from becoming involved in a romantic or sexual relationship with a student over whom they have (or could have) an evaluative role. Although the relationship may appear to be voluntary and consensual, the inequity between the parties in light of their relative positions (power differential) places intellectual and professional trust at risk. Employees should never initiate any romantic or sexual relationship with a student; in addition, employees should decline any romantic or sexual overtures made by students over whom they have (or may have) an evaluative role.

If such a relationship exists or develops, it is the responsibility of the employee to remove himself/herself from evaluation of the student's work. S/he should contact the Dean or Chief Human Resources Officer who will arrange for another employee to evaluate the work of the student. Failure by the employee to remove himself/herself from the evaluation process will render the employee subject to disciplinary action.

6.03 CONFIDENTIAL NATURE OF UNIVERSITY INFORMATION

The business and academic affairs of the University, including its faculty, administrators, students and prospective students, are confidential. The information which you may access, transmit, receive or use in the course of performing your duties belongs to the University and is for work-related purposes only. All University information is considered confidential unless you are otherwise advised by your supervisor. You are to maintain all University information in the strictest confidence and are not to divulge, share or otherwise communicate University confidential information to anyone inside or outside the University for any purpose other than in the performance of your work on a routine basis or unless directed and required to do so in performance of your work by your supervisor. Violations of this policy will result in discipline up to and including discharge.

Nothing contained in this policy is intended to prohibit the disclosure of information about the University that is routinely made available to the public. If you have a question whether any information is confidential, speak with your supervisor, anyone in your chain of command or the Chief Human Resources Officer.

6.04 DISCIPLINE

All employees regardless of length of service are expected to meet and maintain University standards for job performance and conduct as described in this handbook. The University’s standards of performance and conduct are for general guidance to all administrative and support staff in order to provide clear communication as to conduct which is acceptable and conduct which is not acceptable.

Discipline is intended to encourage an employee who has demonstrated unacceptable performance or misconduct to bring his or her performance or conduct to an acceptable level. Except for cases of serious misconduct which may result in immediate dismissal, disciplinary action will generally include verbal and written warnings and suspensions. Discipline is not necessarily progressive and an employee may be disciplined at any level for violation of a standard of conduct or University policy. Discipline will also be considered cumulative and an employee may receive greater discipline for different violations of standards of conduct or policy.
VIOLATIONS OF STANDARDS OF CONDUCT AND UNIVERSITY POLICY

The following listings of violation of standards of conduct and policy for which discipline may be imposed are not all inclusive and any conduct or policy violation deemed inappropriate or not in the best interest of the University may result in discipline or discharge.

(a) Examples of conduct which may result in immediate discharge include the following:

2. Failure to properly notify the University of any absence for three (3) consecutive days and some other violations of the Time and Attendance policy.
3. Violence, fighting or threatening any other employee or person with whom the employee may come into contact in performance of work on or off University premises.
4. Possession of a firearm or other weapon or any explosive device while on University premises or in performance of work unless prior written authorization has been received from the University.
5. Theft or unauthorized possession of University property, the property of another or any other property located on University premises which does not belong to the employee.
6. Misusing, vandalizing, damaging or defacing any University property or equipment or other property of any administrator, faculty, other employee, student, prospective student, guest or visitor to the University.
7. Falsifying any University record or knowingly submitting inaccurate or untruthful information to the University verbally or in writing.
8. Violations of the Alcohol and Other Drugs policy.
9. Insubordination, including but not limited to, refusing to perform a job duty which the employee is specifically directed to perform by his or her supervisor or others in the employee’s chain of command and which the employee is capable of performing.
10. Violations of the Confidential Nature of University Information policy.
11. Instances of sleeping and loafing on the job.

9. Use of profane, obscene or abusive language.
10. Some instances of poor performance.
6.06 ALCOHOL AND OTHER DRUGS

The standards set forth in this policy are designed to provide an alcohol and drug-free workplace, campus and community. All University employees are expected to make a good faith effort to maintain a drug and alcohol free workplace through carefully following this policy.

(a) Definitions The following definitions apply this policy.

1. Alcohol or alcoholic beverages. Any beverage with alcoholic content.

2. Legal drugs. Prescribed and over-the-counter drugs legally obtained and used for the purposes for which they were prescribed or manufactured and pursuant to and in accordance with a valid prescription or according to manufacturer’s instructions.

3. Illegal drugs. Any drug that is (a) not legally obtainable, (b) not legally obtained by the user, (c) any synthetic substitute intended to create the effects of an otherwise prohibited drug (e.g., K2 or spice), or (d) an otherwise legal drug or other substance which is used inappropriately. This includes prescribed drugs not being used for prescribed purposes, not being used in prescribed dosages or not being used by the person for whom the drugs were prescribed. It also includes, but is not limited to, controlled substances as defined below.

4. Controlled substances. Any narcotic drug, hallucinogenic drug, amphetamine, marijuana or other controlled substance. The term does not include the use of a controlled substance pursuant to a valid prescription or use authorized by law.

(b) Responsibilities and Penalties. Baker University prohibits all employees from being under the influence of any illegal drugs, controlled substances (except pursuant to a valid prescription), or alcohol, or involved in the distribution, dispensation, possession, use, manufacture, purchase or transfer of any illegal drug, controlled substance or alcohol during working time, while on University property including parking lots, while using University equipment including University vehicles, or while conducting business for or on behalf of University.

(c) Testing. An employee may be required to undergo a drug or alcohol screening if, in the judgment of the administration, the employee appears to be under the influence of drugs or alcohol or if the employee demonstrates a level of job performance which indicates a drug or alcohol problem or if the employee is involved in a work-related accident that necessitates medical treatment and/or causes substantial property damage. For purposes of this policy, “substantial property damage” is any damage to property of $250 or more.

(d) Failure to Cooperate. Any University employee who fails to cooperate with an investigation into this policy, including but not limited to, failing to provide an appropriate sample for drug and/or alcohol testing, and/or altering a sample for testing, shall be subject to disciplinary action up to and including termination of employment. For purposes of this policy, providing two diluted samples, absent medical explanation, shall be deemed alteration of a sample.

(e) Violations of this Policy. Based upon the judgment of the administration regarding the circumstances in each case, an employee who violates the drug and alcohol policy may be subject to disciplinary action up to and including termination of employment. In instances where a violation of the policy involves illegal drugs, employees will also be reported to the appropriate law enforcement officials. Furthermore, a positive test may limit an employee’s ability to collect unemployment benefits and/or workers’ compensation benefits.

(f) Reporting Criminal Convictions. In the event an employee is convicted under a criminal statute for a drug related violation, the employee must notify the University within five (5) business days of the conviction. Upon notification of any conviction, the University will, in the event the convicted employee is working on a government contract or a project funded through a grant from a governmental agency, notify the contracting officer or the governmental agency of the conviction within ten (10) business days of receiving notice of the conviction. Based on the judgment of the administration regarding the circumstances of each case, any employee convicted under a criminal drug statute for a violation occurring in the workplace will be disciplined, up to and including termination of employment.

(g) Prescription Use. Employees who are under a doctor’s direction to use a prescription drug or are using an over-the-counter drug that could affect the employee's work performance or create a safety risk should notify Human Resources only of the effect of the drug on safety or work performance. Notification may include, among other things, a statement from a health care provider to Human Resources that states that the workplace safety is not jeopardized by the employee’s continued work while the drug is being taken. Failure of an employee to notify Human Resources that he or she is using or under the influence of any legal drug during working time, while on University property, including parking lots, while using University equipment including University vehicles or while on University business, that may affect the employee's work performance or the safety of others, may subject the employee to discipline, up to and including termination.

(h) Counseling and Treatment Resources. The University recognizes that addiction to or abuse of alcohol or other drugs is a treatable health problem. Any employee who seeks assistance before a violation of this, or other Baker University policies is discovered, will be afforded an opportunity to seek rehabilitation. Employees wishing to seek assistance should contact the Office of Human Resources. Human Resources will maintain such information as confidential as possible under the circumstances.

In addition to the University, individuals may contact Alcoholics Anonymous or Narcotics Anonymous whose programs are free. Employees desiring professional evaluation, personal counseling or treatment for alcohol or other drugs may contact DCCCA in Lawrence, a nonprofit service agency dealing with alcohol and drug abuse.

Inpatient treatment, if necessary, is also available through Baker's employee health insurance plan subject to the terms of the plan.

6.07 INFORMAL EMPLOYEE COUNSELING

(a) Work Conditions Employees who have a concern about general or specific working conditions or interpretations of policies, procedures, rules or regulations or who feel the need for additional guidance or training in performance of work should discuss their concerns with their immediate supervisor, the Chief Human Resources Officer or other appropriate member of the University staff.

(b) Personal Concerns The University recognizes that employees may at times be faced with many individual concerns, pressures or problems, both inside and outside the workplace. These matters often include problems with interpersonal communications, stress, family, financial distress and drug or alcohol use or abuse. These problems can be detrimental to the employee’s ability to perform his or her job. Where appropriate and when you feel comfortable, you may speak with your supervisor, the Chief Human Resources Officer or other University official. These conversations are considered confidential. Where reasonably possible, the University will reasonably assist you in finding help for addressing such problems and will often be able to suggest cost effective resources of which you may not be aware or which you may not have considered.

6.08 E-MAIL POLICY

E-mail services are provided to the Baker community in support of the educational mission of the University and the administrative functions to carry out that mission. Users of Baker e-mail services are expected to act in accordance with the Information Technology Responsible Use Policy and with professional and personal courtesy and conduct. E-mail may not be used for unlawful activities. The University may revoke e-mail accounts if a person has failed to comply with University policy or used an e-mail account unlawfully.

Many official communications from Baker will be distributed to employees and students exclusively via Baker e-mail. It is the employee and student’s responsibility to check their Baker e-mail regularly.

(a) Definitions To clarify terms used within these policies, the following definitions are provided:

E-mail account: An e-mail account is the location where mail is actually delivered. It is a combination of a login username and password and disk space. A person may have several e-mail accounts on different computers or e-mail servers.

E-mail username: The actual name of the account as typed in at the Username prompt when logging onto e-mail.

E-mail usernames for CAS, SOE and SPGS faculty and staff are constructed as follows: first initial, last name, (optionally) unique number

For example: Jane Smith would be JSmith if there were no other JSmith@bakeru.edu accounts. Otherwise she would have a number in the username such as JSmith2

E-mail usernames for SPGS/ SOE adjunct faculty are constructed as follows: first name, last name, (optionally) unique number
For example: Jane Smith would be JaneSmith if there were no other JaneSmith@fac.bakeru.edu accounts. Otherwise she would have a number in the username such as JaneSmith2.

E-mail usernames for all STUDENTS are constructed as follows based on the student's name as submitted on their admissions application:

First name, MI, last name, (optionally) unique number

For example: John L. Brown would be JohnLBrown if there were no other JohnLBrown@stu.bakeru.edu accounts. Otherwise he would have a number in the username such as JohnLBrown2@stu.bakeru.edu.

E-mail name address: For faculty and staff, the first.last@bakeru.edu address is an alias address. It is linked to the person's e-mail account but is, itself, not an account username, but rather a permanent e-mail alias. Use of the name address ensures that the e-mail address will remain the same the whole time one is at Baker. School of Nursing faculty and staff are provided with a Baker alias address linked to their Stormont-Vail e-mail account.

Examples of email addresses:
- CAS, SPGS, SOE faculty/staff email address: jsmith@bakeru.edu
- SPGS adjunct faculty email address: janesmith@fac.bakeru.edu
- All student email address: johnbrown@stu.bakeru.edu

Preferred e-mail account: Baker does not recommend the forwarding of Baker email to other email accounts. Baker cannot guarantee that the targeted email server will receive that mail. Many email systems have been set up to limited quotas or refuse forwarded mail so forwarded Baker email may never be received at the targeted email account. Baker takes no responsibility for errors in setting up forwarding or for non-delivery of Baker email by the targeted email account.

(b) Security, Privacy and Confidentiality  Baker cannot guarantee the security, privacy, and confidentiality of e-mail. Users do not have a reasonable expectation of privacy in their email and should not assume it will remain confidential. Users should exercise caution when sending personal, financial, confidential or sensitive information by e-mail. Examples of why e-mail confidentiality cannot be guaranteed are:

1) E-mail may be subject to disclosure under law.

2) Back-up copies may be retained for periods of time and in locations unknown to senders and recipients even if the user has deleted it from their account or PC.

3) In the course of routine systems maintenance, troubleshooting and mail delivery problem resolution, network or systems staff may inadvertently see the content of e-mail messages.

4) Password protections are advised but cannot be guaranteed.

5) Senders can mask their identity.

6) Messages can be easily forwarded without permission to individuals or groups, even though it violates copyright law.

7) Messages can be intercepted while in transit through the network.

8) Managers and/or Human Resources may access and review email as part of an ongoing investigation into violations of this Handbook and/or other University policies.
9) Forwarded messages can be altered from the original.

10) Encryption and digital signatures are evolving technologies and are not yet available for use at Baker.

11) Once a message is received on a machine outside of Baker, all of the above concerns continue to apply.

12) Users must maintain the security of accounts.

13) Users are advised to protect and regularly change their account passwords.

14) Passwords are not to be shared with others and their confidentiality is to be strictly maintained.

15) Users will be held accountable for all actions performed with their passwords, including those performed by other individuals as a result of user negligence in protecting codes.

16) No one is to use another individual's account, with or without permission.

17) Unauthorized anonymous and pseudonymous communications are prohibited.

18) Misrepresenting or forging the identity of the sender or the source of an electronic communication is prohibited.

19) The intentional propagation of computer "worms" and "viruses", the sending of electronic chain mail, denial of service attacks, and inappropriate "broadcasting" of messages to large numbers of individuals or hosts are prohibited.

(c) E-mail Accounts

1) Eligibility for an e-mail account is defined in the Baker University Information Technology Responsible Use Policy.

2) Users of e-mail must adhere to the Baker University Information Technology Responsible Use Policy.

3) E-mail accounts are assigned a disk quota on the e-mail server which can only be increased based on valid business justification.

4) E-mail accounts can be immediately locked upon the request of an administrative department head or dean.

5) When a user's affiliation with Baker ends Baker will terminate access to e-mail accounts. Baker may, at its discretion, permit the user to have the access to e-mail forwarded or redirected for a limited period of time.

6) E-mail addresses are held from use for one year to avoid possible confusion of mail delivery.
(d) E-mail Addresses

1) E-mail name addresses are generated from the user's legal name and must be unique. Duplicate names are resolved based on an alternate name selected by the affected user(s) or the use of a unique number with the name.

2) E-mail usernames and e-mail name addresses may be changed when a user legally changes their name.

3) Users who opt to use their firstname.lastname@bakeru.edu form of e-mail address have one opportunity to change the first name portion of the name address during their time at Baker. The last name in the firstname.lastname@bakeru.edu address must be the user's legal last name.

4) A user may elect to use either the name address (firstname.lastname@bakeru.edu for faculty and staff or firstname.lastname@wildcat.bakeru.edu for CAS and BUSN students) or the e-mail delivery address (username@server.bakeru.edu) as their address. Use of e-mail delivery address is subject to change any time the e-mail server is retired and/or replaced by another server. Notification of server changes will be issued by Computer Services at least 2 months in advance of such a change.

(e) Group or Departmental Accounts

In some situations, a single point of contact is required where multiple individuals manage service requests. These accounts are permitted as follows: The department head will determine when a single group account is required to conduct the business of the department and will be responsible for all of the account activities.

(f) E-mail Distribution Lists

1) Mailing lists may be used for purposes related to teaching, course-work, research, and administration at Baker University and university sanctioned student activities.

2) All list users need to unsubscribe from lists or suspend mail delivery from lists if they intend to use auto responders (e.g., the vacation programs) for brief periods of time.

3) Commercial use of mailing lists, except for authorized Baker University business is prohibited.

4) Use of mailing lists for private business, fund-raising or advertising on behalf of non-Baker organizations is prohibited.

5) Activities that may strain the e-mail or network facilities more than can be reasonably expected are in violation of this policy. These activities include, but are not limited to: sending chain letters, "spam" or the widespread dissemination or unsolicited e-mail, and "letter bombs" to resend the same e-mail repeatedly to one or more recipients.

6) Every mailing list will have an owner or a group of owners who will be actively involved in managing the mailing list. List owners have the following responsibilities:
a) Owners need to keep the subscription list current at all times.

b) Owners need to analyze error messages and take appropriate action.

c) Owners need to respond quickly to communications from Computer Services.

d) Owners need to assign an "alternate owner" who must check email if the primary owner is unable to do so for more than 2 days.

e) Owners need to inform Computer Services when the list is no longer needed so that it may be deleted. If there is a list that has had no activity for three months, Computer Services will delete the list after notifying the owners.

(g) Directory Policies
The Baker University electronic and printed directories are provided solely for the purpose of assisting individuals to contact one another. Information in the directories may not be extracted by any means for the creation of distribution lists for use by businesses or other organizations outside of Baker. Use of directory information for solicitation of business or donations is expressly prohibited. Students who have requested privacy locks with the Registrar will not appear in the online directory.

(h) E-mail Backups
In the event of a system disaster, email will be restored to the state of user email accounts on that server at the time of the last back-up. As messages may be received and subsequently deleted or lost since the last backup, Baker cannot guarantee that all messages can be restored.

1) Baker is not able to restore individual messages or mailboxes on e-mail servers.

2) It is the user's responsibility to back up copies of their own e-mail on their PC. Email left on an email server will be backed up by Baker Computer Services nightly.

(i) E-mail Abuse and Policy Enforcement
E-mail services are provided to the Baker community to conduct University business. Violations of the Baker University Responsible Use and E-mail policies as well as other University relevant policies will be subject to disciplinary action and violators may have their e-mail account suspended during any investigation. The following is a non-exhaustive list of examples of e-mail abuse:

1) Excess personal use that interferes with University business by burdening the network or systems or by interfering employment obligations.

2) Interference with other people's use of e-mail.

3) Intentional unauthorized access of other people's e-mail.

4) Sending 'spams', chain letters, letter bombs or any other type of widespread distribution of unsolicited e-mail.
5) Forging e-mail.

6) Giving the impression you are representing the University unless you are authorized to do so.

7) Use of e-mail for commercial activities or personal gain.

8) Sending of offensive or abusive messages.

9) Conducting unlawful activities.

E-mail abuse may be reported to the Vice President of Strategic Planning and Academic Resources and Chief Information Officer or the Chief Human Resources Officer. Reports of abuse will be investigated and handled as appropriate. In all cases, do not delete any e-mail or message(s) as they can be used as evidence.

(j) Responsibility for E-mail Policies
The Vice President of Strategic Planning and Academic Resources and Chief Information Officer is responsible for implementing this policy in cooperation with the Administrative Council and the Chief Human Resources Officer. The University has the right to change this policy as necessary. The Administrative Council must approve changes to policy; final authority rests with the President.

6.09 INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY RESPONSIBLE USE POLICY

(a) General Statement
Baker University's computing and network resources are intended for university-related purposes, including direct and indirect support of the university's instruction, research, and service missions; of university administrative functions; of student and campus life activities; and of the free exchange of ideas among members of the university community and between the university community and the wider local, national, and world communities.

The use of university computing and network resources is subject to the normal requirements of legal and ethical behavior within the university community. Although some limitations are built into computer operating systems and networks, those technical limitations are not the sole restrictions on what is permissible. Users must abide by all applicable restrictions, whether or not they are built into the operating system or network and whether or not they can be circumvented by technical means.

(b) Applicability
This policy applies to all users of university computing and network resources, whether affiliated with the university or not, and to all uses of those resources, whether on campus or from remote locations.

The university may also take action relating to the use of university or non-university computer resources, either on campus or elsewhere, when such behavior may involve the commission of a crime or poses a danger to others.

(c) Eligibility
Eligibility is defined as follows:

(d) Policy on the Use of Baker University Computing Resources

1. Users must comply with all federal, Kansas and other applicable law, as well as all generally applicable university rules and policies. Examples of such potentially applicable laws, rules and policies include the laws of libel, privacy, copyright, trademark, obscenity and child pornography; the Computer Security Act of 1987, the Computer Abuse and Misuse Act of 1986, the Electronic Communications Privacy Act, and Kansas Computer Crime; Unlawful Computer Access law #21-3755; the university's Student Handbook; the university's Faculty Handbook; and the university’s Employment Policies Handbook's. Users who engage in electronic communications with persons in other states or countries or on other systems or networks should be aware that they may also be subject to the laws of those other states and countries and the rules and policies of those other systems and networks. Users must be sure that the use of any downloaded material (including print, audio, and video) stored on university or personal computers is not in violation of copyright laws.

2. Users are responsible for complying with the requirements of the contracts and licenses applicable to the software files and other data they install on University or personal systems. Proof of legal licensing should be available upon request.

3. Users may utilize only those computing resources that they are authorized to use and use them only in the manner and to the extent authorized. Ability to access computing resources does not, by itself, imply authorization to do so. Users are responsible for ascertaining what authorizations are necessary and for obtaining them before proceeding. Accounts and passwords may not, under any circumstances, be shared with, or used by, persons other than those to whom they have been assigned by the university not even with family members or a partner.

4. Users must respect the privacy of other users and their accounts, regardless of whether those accounts are securely protected. Again, ability to access other persons’ accounts does not, by itself, imply authorization to do so.

5. Users must respect the finite capacity of those resources and limit use so as not to consume an unreasonable amount of those resources or to interfere unreasonably with the activity of other users. The university may require users of bandwidth, disk space, CPU time, or other resources to limit or refrain from specific uses in accordance with this principle. The reasonableness of any particular use will be judged in the context of all the relevant circumstances.

6. Baker computing and network resources and services may be used only by authorized persons for Baker University-related purposes, including those listed in the General Statement above. These resources may not be used for other purposes except as authorized by Baker University. For example, the reselling of network services or other uses of computer resources for personal financial gain is not permitted. Use of computers and networks for personal purposes such as e-mail and web access is allowed, as long as it does not interfere with work responsibilities and does not place a burden on resources. Users may not run unauthorized servers off of the Baker network. Users are expected to respect the priority of university business and keep personal use to a minimum.

7. Individuals may not state or imply that they speak on behalf of the university and may not use university trademarks and logos without authorization to do so.
so. Affiliation with the university does not, by itself, imply authorization to speak on behalf of the university. Authorization to use university trademarks and logos on university computing resources must be obtained prior to their use. The use of appropriate disclaimers is encouraged e.g. "the thoughts expressed here are my personal opinion and do not represent the position of Baker University in any way.

(e) Enforcement

The university may temporarily suspend or block access to an account, prior to the initiation or completion of an investigation, when it reasonably appears necessary to do so in order to protect the integrity, security, or functionality of university or other computing resources or to protect the university from liability. The university may also refer suspected violations of applicable law to appropriate law enforcement agencies.

Users who violate this policy may be subject to disciplinary action, and may be denied further access to university computing resources.

(f) Security and Privacy

The university employs various measures to protect the security of its computing and network resources and of their users' accounts. Users should be aware, however, that the university cannot guarantee such security. Users should therefore engage in "safe computing" practices by establishing appropriate access restrictions for their accounts, guarding their passwords, and changing them regularly.

Users should also be aware that their uses of university computing and network resources are not completely private. While the university does not routinely monitor individual usage of its computing and network resources, the normal operation and maintenance of the university's computing resources require the backup and caching of data and communications, the logging of activity, the monitoring of general usage patterns, and other such activities that are necessary for the provision of service. The university may also specifically monitor the activity and accounts of individual users of university computing and network resources, including individual login sessions and communications, without notice, when (a) the user has voluntarily made them accessible to the public, as by posting to a web page; (b) it reasonably appears necessary to do so to protect the integrity, security, or functionality of university or other computing resources or to protect the university from liability; (c) there is reasonable cause to believe that the user has violated, or is violating, this policy or other policies in this Handbook; (d) an account appears to be engaged in unusual or unusually excessive activity; as indicated by the monitoring of general activity and usage patterns; or (e) it is otherwise required or permitted by law.

The university, at its discretion, may disclose the results of any such general or individual monitoring, including the contents and records of individual communications, to appropriate university personnel and/or state or federal law enforcement agencies and may use those results in appropriate university disciplinary proceedings or in litigation.

(g) Implementation and Revisions

Baker University Chief Information Officer is responsible for implementing this policy, in cooperation with the Executive Cabinet and the Chief Human Resources Officer. The University has the right to change this policy as necessary; the Executive Cabinet will oversee and approve changes to the policy in consultation with the aforementioned groups and individuals. The final authority rests with the President.
